

Leicestershire Money Advice service is a joint initiative between Leicestershire County Council and the Leicestershire Citizens Advice Bureau .

Telephone the debtline and you will talk to an experienced Citizens Advice Bureau Money Advice Worker. You may be sent a self-help pack and be provided with details of the Citizens Advice Bureau most convenient for you. The bureau may help you budget, make offers to your creditors and even prepare your case for court. If it is an emergency such as bailiffs or disconnections we will help you to deal with this (during opening hours).

The Citizens Advice Bureau Service is free, impartial, independent and confidential.

We all have financial commitments but certain critical life events, e.g. relationship breakdowns, changes in family commitments, illness, changes in benefit and redundancy can effect our ability to manage. When that happens, you need to act quickly before a problem becomes a disaster.

Housing arrears, Council Tax, gas, electricity, water—are all serious problems, but with a properly worked out budget, repayment arrangements are always possible.
